

Broadie and his wonderful piece of art!

In year 5, we looked at the artist Aaron Douglas during Black History Month.

Aaron Douglas was a famous figure during the Harlem Renaissance and his work addressed social issues around race segregation in the United States. His work often featured silhouettes of men and women and used symbols and visual representations of Ancient Egypt.

Our topic this term in year 5 is Ancient Egypt so we combined the style of Aaron Douglas with aspects of Ancient Egypt that we have been studying to create watercolour murals.
