

Dear Parents and Carers,

Re. Science Week – reminder and optional home learning challenge

Thank you so much for the contributions the school has already received towards Science Week. We asked parents and carers to make a voluntary contribution of between £5 and £10 via Parent Pay to cover the cost of the amazing workshops and activities that your child will be participating in.

It is not too late to contribute and all proceeds raised will go directly to Science Week 2018 activities and resources.

We have just completed an assembly where we discussed the impact of plastic pollution on our environment. We took time to discuss images like this from The National Geographic:

We would really like the children to create a piece of art work which matches the title ‘The War On Plastic Pollution’.

We gave a few examples to the children to stimulate ideas and we’ve included these below. If your child feels inspired to produce a piece of art, please hand it to the School Office at the end of Science Week – on Friday 25th May. Please do not hand any completed work in before then. We will display the completed work on the school website and display it around the school. We may even reward the children who participate with a little gift!

We really want to make a difference to the environment and we have loads of ideas for Science Week to make it memorable for the children.

Thanks for your support.

We hope the ideas below are useful for the home learning challenge.

Best wishes,

Lucy Sykes – Science Leader
